

Join the Water Leadership Institute today!

Apply for this free bilingual training to learn about local water resources and develop your leadership skills.

Water is life. It is essential to our health, our food, and our environment. As California becomes hotter and drier, water security is increasingly scarce and valuable.

Are you interested in helping your community ensure it has reliable, clean water? Your voice matters.

Communities like yours that depend on groundwater are developing plans to manage it more sustainably. Join the Institute and learn how to take an active role in critical decisions on water issues that impact your community.

Who should apply?

Residents of rural and/or small communities in the Delta Mendota subbasin, located in Sacramento, San Joaquin, Stanislaus, Merced, Madera and Fresno counties, domestic well owners, current or prospective water board members from small community water systems who depend on groundwater, anyone interested in building their skills to participate in local decision-making, and YOU!

Logistics:

There will be 4 in-person workshops in Los Banos, California. Meals will be provided, as well as gas stipends. Application is required to attend.
